General fractional derivatives and the Bergman projection

We study an operator induced by two radial weights on the disk. This operator can be understood as a general fractional derivative. We show that this interpretation can be used to obtain pre-images for weighted Bergman projections in cases where the surjectivity is not immediate. Typical examples include the setting of Bloch and Besov spaces.